POLITICAL NOTES.

—On the fourth of this month important elections are held in the States of Arkansas, Illinois, Kansas, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, New Jersey, New York, Virginia and Wisconsin.

"Why did all of our Democratic Congressmen take their part of the back salary grab?"—Kentucky paper.

We do with the conundrum what they will never do with the money—give it up.

—No party was ever able to profit by a success won by less than its usual strength, for it was sure to be overturned by its opponent at the very next trial. This is an axiom in politics which the Ohio Democrats would be wise to study thoroughly.

—A New England paper suggests that "all noodles should be rigidly excluded from legislative halls, next year." Would not such an exclusion make the attendance in such halls too meager for the transaction of business, which cannot be done without a quorum?

—This is a year for declining. Nearly all the prominent Democrats of New York have declined various nominations tendered them by Democratic conventions, which would seem to indicate that the prospects of success for Democratic nominees are not very promising in that State.

—The Democratic State Committee of New York has resolved not to ask State Treasurer Raines to withdraw from the ticket. They knew, it is true, that a deputy appointed by Raines had stolen $300,000; but they knew, also, that the ticket would be beaten, any way, and Raines might as well stand the racket as any one else.

—Ohio, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, and now Iowa, have by their Supreme Courts affirmed the constitutionality of the law which makes liquor dealers responsible for damages to persons or property arising from the sales of liquors. It is gradually beginning to be understood that the community has some rights which everybody is bound to respect.

—The New York Democratic organs have for years been devoting a great deal of attention to the management of the State Treasury of Pennsylvania. In the meantime the Cashier of the New York State Treasury has stolen $300,000. Would it not have been better if the New York papers had given a little more attention to the condition of matters at home?

—The New York World is bitterly dissatisfied with the action of the President during and since the panic. But then the New York World has been just as bitterly dissatisfied with the same official ever since he first drew sword for the defense of his imperiled country. To that paper's taste the fruits of the historic tree at Appomattox are nothing but scurvy crab-apples.

—If our free trades are capable of learning anything, they will, we should think, begin now to understand how vital an element in the national prosperity are the home industries which, for years past, they have been in the habit of deriding. The manifold and wide spread inconvenience resulting from the present embarrassed condition of our manufacturing interests, should at least teach them that.

—If distance lends enchantment to the view, so, no doubt, does possession, after long deprivation, fictitiously enhance the value of the object obtained. This may serve to account for the hysterical raptures in which the Democratic press continues to indulge over the Ohio election. To a beggar who hasn't looked upon a dollar for a dozen years, a five cent piece will seem almost as large as the moon.

—The election of Allen in Ohio has wonderfully elated the old slaveholders. They guage the Democracy of the present by their knowledge of the Democracy of the past, and therefore conclude that if the Democracy should return to power they will fortwith be paid the market value of their slaves at the time they were emancipated. Their reasoning is probably correct. They certainly are correct in concluding that they will never be paid for their slaves until the Democrats get into power again.

PANICS.

Panics, like extensive conflagrations, have small beginnings. A spark has within it the power to lay in ashes the largest city. If fed by combustible material, it soon becomes a flame, before which iron melts and granite crumbles into dust. So with panics. Words of suspicion are the sparks that lead to financial conflagrations. Distrust is breathed from one to another; instead of being quieted by calm advice, it is fed by popular excitement. Those who have least to lose are the loudest in their croakings over coming failures. A rush is made to sacrifice stock that is both profitable and safe; it is thrown upon the market along with fancy and worthless stock. A sense of insecurity seizes the buyer, and the result is, no sales, or ruinons sacrifices of stock that only needed the restoration of confidence te bo worth more than ever. When a fire breaks out, efforts are made to confine it within its original limits. But the breaking out of distrust in a community is the signal, not for united efforts to confine it within its legitimite bounds, or its suppression, but for a general rush to feed the flame by gossip, ill-omened prophecy, or groundless rumors of some indefinable calamity. A rumor starts, affecting the financial standing of some bank official. It matters little whether it be true or false; the whisper is soon transformed into a storm. A sudden run is made upon the bank; then upon other banks, until the whole community is in a ferment of excitement. If the banks have facilities for prompt conversion of securities into cash, the storm may blow over; but if distrust is widespread, money is locked up or held for self-protection, and banks that are perfectly sound are driven by sheer necessity to suspend payment. No reasonable man can expect a banker to pay interest on deposits and keep those deposits locked up in his safe, ready to be returned without a moment's notice; yet men who claim to be reasonable act at times as if they thought this to be the case. Banks pay interest upon money, because they can loan the money received for a higher rate of interest than they pay. They take securities for money loaned. To convert these into money requires time; and those having deposits should be considerate enough to grant it. The best bank in the country may be forced to suspend payment in the face of an unexpected and unreasonable demand, especially if popular excitement has no unsettled values as to render the conversion of securities into cash almost impossible. Panics should be stopped at the moment of their inception. Men of ability and judgement should unite to quiet popular distrust. Confidence should be strenghened by every legitimate means. Depositors, unless they have good reasons for demanding payment, should assist, rather than cripple, the bank whose credit and standing they depend upon. Exceptional cases of failure may occur at any time, but a panic, such as recently swept over the financial centres of the country, ought to be an impossibility.

THE TRUE DISTINCTION.

Who would think of condemning a worthy merchant because he discovered in his employ a dishonest clerk? Sympathy, rather than blame, would be extended to him, and every fair-minded man would approve the prompt dismissal, and, if the law was violated, the speedy punishment of the offender. Why, then, should our opponents denounce the Republican party because it discoveres among its thousands of officials a few exceptional cases of dishonesty? The party repudiates the acts of dishonesty, and the people put their stamp of condemnation, not only upon the offence, but upon the offender. No act of dishonesty, or official guilty of crime; no questionable or iniquitious measures have ever been condoned or protected by the Republican party. As soon as known, as earnest protest has gone up against them, and those involved have been called to a strict account. This is all that can be done. Individuals are liable to be deceived. A party can rise no higher nor better divine the future than the individuals who compose it. As long as the party seeks to detect and punish the rascals who deceive it, and use due caution in the selection of its public servants, we shall have an abiding faith in it. We call upon Republicans everywhere to weed out every official that shows himself unworthy of public confidence.

WHAT LIQUOR DOES.

Death of John Crowley, at the Jail, on Tuesday Morning—The end of a Drunkard's Life.

John Crowley came to this place last spring, no one scarcely knowing or caring where from. He was drunk when he arrived and has been drunk ever since, till he perished from the poison he had poured into himself. On Monday, as usual, he was drunk. He passed down Main street in the forenoon and the next heard of him he was writhing and suffering horribly with fits of the most terrible character. There being no other place provided, and having no home, he was taken to the jail, where the spasms continued till' Tuesday morning, when death came to his relief, and another drunkard's soul was launched into eternity.

From a habit of laughing almost constantly even when there was no cause for merriment, Crowley had become known as "Laughing Jack." This habit was probably a disease brought on by over-indulgence in liquor, and even while thoughtless persons were amused over his apparent levity he might have been suffering the penalty of his debauchery.

John Crowley was not the only drunkard in Lock Haven, and those who are left and have the opportunity should take warning and summon all the will and manhood they possess for a decisive and permanent reformation, lest their fate be that of "Laughing Jack."—Enterprise.

And who is responsible for the death of John Crowley? Are the people of Lock Haven blameless? When the opportunity was given them last spring to say whether the poison which destroys both the body and soul should be sold in their midst, what did they say? They said in substance this: We will license men to sell intoxicating drinks to the John Crowley's; we license men to sell to our children, or to anybody, and who can say that vote did not kill John Crowley?

STOKES DISPOSED OF.

At last Stokes is disposed of, and, although Justice never was known to get all her due in New York, yet she is not cheated entirely. That Stokes is a murderer of the blackest dye no sane man doubts for a moment; and had he been a poor man or the son of a poor man, he would have been hung long ago. It was the power of money that saved his neck from the halter. But what is the result after two trials, in one of which he was convicted of murder, and justly too, as we believe? At the third trial the Jury return a verdict of manslaughter in the third degree, and he is sentenced to four years imprisonment at hard labor in the Sing Sing State Prison. Thus ends the famous Fisk-Stokes tragedy.

God save the commonwealth of New York.

—The question of the relation between capital and labor in the Southern States is attracting considerable attention in that quarter; and a number of suggestions, of one kind and another, were being advanced in the press concerning it. All of them, however, have the fatal defect of assuming the "inferiority" of the colored race. So long as the whites of the South come to the discussion of this or any other question in that unwise spirit, just so long will the true solution of their problems elude them. The first factor in the proposition is that of equal rights and equal justice.

Miss M. A. Boyer, Miss Eliza Clark, Peter Clark, Peter Comvay, John Destine-2, Robert Edmunson, Obidah Hoy, Jacob Long, Hugh L. Mitchell, Mrs. Lima Neff, Miss Lizzie J. Neff, Benj. Peters, Mrs. Maggie Pownell, Sam Sankey, Wm. Wingert, John Walton.

——At a meeting of the editors of Centre county, in convention assembled, it was decided to draw up a paper to be signed by the proprietors of every paper in the county, agreeing that after the first day of January, no paper shall be sent out that is not paid for in advance. Such action would be for the interest of all concerned, and the people would have better papers. We hope our subscribers will help prepare us for this state of affairs by sending in the stamps at once, and we will acknowlege it by making the paper red-hot every week.

By the arrangement we have made we now have better facilities for obtaining local news than ever before, and better we think than any other paper in the county. We have done this at great expense, indeed we are sparing no expense or effort to make the REPUBLICAN the very best pape the State.

PERSONAL.—D. L. Kreps, Esq., well remembered in this plase as a clerk in the Pathonetory's office while he was completing his law studies, who then gave evidences of decided ability and force of character, and who has within a few years attained to a high position at the bar of Clearfield county, lately married a daughter of Hon. William A. Wallace, of Clearfield. We wish him joy.

—R. A. Kinsloe has removed his family to Williamsport.

—Peter Herdic, chief of the Minnequas, was on the war-path last week; he passed through this place on a scouting expedition.

—R. P. Tuten, publisher of this paper, is in Boston, being called there by the illness of a dear friend.

—Ira C. Mitchell, lawyer, preacher, etc., was heard from, last week, he was South, where the wood-bine-twinetli.

——The winter schedule for the running of trains on Pennsylvania Rail Road and branches, went into effect on Monday last.

Trains from Tyrone and Lock Haven arrive at Bellefonte at 11.04, and leave at 11.09 A. M. The mail from Lock Haven arives at 4.32 P. M. and Express from Tyrone at 8.32 P. M. The Niagra Express has been discontinued on P. & E. R. R. In lieu thereof accommodation trains have been put on, which pass Lock Haven each way at 2.20 P. M.

Passengers can leave Williamsport twice a day, and reach Bellefonte as usual, can also leave Bellefonte twice a day making connection at Lock Haven at 2.20 P. M. each way and 10 P. M. east which, if any difference, makes the new schedule more desirable for local travel. The trains on main line make connections about asusual.

——A beautiful white deer, something rare to hunters, was killed on last Friday near Julian Furnace. Reuben Comly, a hunter of some repute in Huston township, while on the mountain back of Julian, observed the snow white animal quietly sauntering through the brush, and at first was puzzled to decide what it really was. Coming up within easy gunshot, he leveled his rifle and brought down the beauty. It proved to be a large doe. Its skin was all a clear white color excepting a couple of small red flakes, one on its head and the other—about the size of a man's hand—on its hip. When dressed, the deer weighed about one hundred and forty pounds and the proudest man in those parts at this writing is Reuben Comly.

— A correspondent from Curtin township writes that deers and bears are numerous at some places along Marsh Creek being driven from the mountainsr, probably by scarcity of food, to that land of corn and honey. Our informant states that a hunter in that locality shot a bear's young and playful offspring and when he came up with it and was about to pick it up and carry away, it suddenly revived; and the last pleasant act of its earthly existence was to tear the hunter's jacket to peices and open his shirt in the back. Then it fell peacefully asleep.

——The Liberty Sunday School, of Penns Cecks, closed last Sunday, for the winter. The attendance this summer has been as good, if not better, than at any other time for fifteen years.—Berichter.

That's a mistake; the good people of Penns Creek should keep their school open all winter. Death has all seasons for its own and so should Sunday Schools. Don't close a single school in the country. Do your duty to the children all the year round. We believe this to be the proper advise.

——The highest market prices paid for butter and eggs at Burnside & Thomas.

——The other day a preacher remarked to us "that he could not understand the reason why so many of our citizens absented themselves from church service on Sunday." There can be no denying the fact that a large portion of the people have become tired of hearing so much said about what certain individuals said and done three and four thousand years ago. They are also surfeited with having the doings and saying of Zachriah, Zerubbable and Hezekiak dished up to them for a Sunday meal. No doubt all these ancient individuals were paragons of perfection in their day and fit examples for emulation by their people at that time. What the mass of individuals now on earth want is a human sermonizer. They want to know what they are to do, and they want some one to tell them who is not a mythological theological compound. They want to receive their information from a person through whose veins freely flows the milk of human kindness, that can laugh and cry, give and receive human sympathy. One that will sympathize with them in all their struggles, eat and drink like other persons. One who wants to fight when he is insulted, and don't. They don't want deodorized spiritual abstractions. The activity of the times and the pressing necessities of every-day life prevent them from indulging in, or listening to, vague and unmeaning-abstractions. Words livid and glowing with every day thoughts, practical, human and sympathetic, are what charm the masses and make them better. Mere platitude with the corners all rounded and the uneven places made smooth, no matter how much good they are intended to do, is of no use to the present generation—the vilest sinner will shed them as easy as a duck sheds water.

FROM THE PHILIPSBURG JOURNAL.—The dullest effects everything. There is a "corner" in local items.....One of the mules in the Mines of the Morrisdale Coal Company broke a leg on Tnurday, and was taken out and shot.....Two children of Stephen Waugh were buried on Tuesday, in one grave. Both died of cholera infantum. Mr. Waugh has now buried twelve of a family of fourteen children.....Some thief in the night stole an easy chair from the front porch of the residence of O. Perry Jones. Perry says they may keep the chair if they will return the door mat.....The Woodland M. E. Church was dedicated to the worship of the Almighty God on Sunday, November 2nd, at 10½ A. M.—Rev. Bishop Thomas Bowman, D. D., Rev. Chaplian, C. C. McCabe and other distinguished ministers was present to conduct the services.....On Friday last the circular saw at McCauly & Reamy's mill, on the Moshanon Branch, while running at full speed, burst and scattered fragmens in every direction. One piece whizzed uncomfortably near the sawyer Sam Kirk, on its way through the mill and out into the dam. Some of the fragments made their way out through the roof, and others flew about the mill endangering the lives of the employees. Very happily, if not miraculously, not a man received the slighest injury.

WE hear predictions on all sides that this will be a hard winter. Although there are plenty of croakers to predict evil, yet there is no doubt a great deal of truth in the saying, that there is going to be a hard winter. Now the most of the people of Bellefonte are in very comfortable circumstances, and some of them very poor, and some, alas, very poor. And some of this latter class are women compelled to battle alone with life's vicissitudes to maintain themselves and perhaps others dependent upon them. Those who have enough and to spare, should see that the poor are provided for. Rest assured that a load of wood or coal, sack of flour, a ham, and anything of that kind which could be given by business men, would be a source of revenue rather than loss, as the quaint preacher said "He that giveth to the poor lendeth to the Lord." If you like the security come down with the dust. Some few of our wealthy citizens habitually give away large sums to the poor, and we hope others may go and do likewise.

——Until Wednesday Nov. 12th—In consequence of appointments elsewhere, Dr. Stearns has announced to remain in Bellefonte only until Wednesday Nov. 12th. Those who have not as yet been able to consult the Docter, should improve this opportunity to avail themselves of the benefits to be derived from his treatment. Call and see him.

——Great bargains! Quick sales! Small profits at Burnside & Thomas.

STATE ITEMS.

—All the woolen and cotton mills at Norristown, Pa., and vicinity, are working on short time.

—The Johnstown Steel Works are in active operation again, after a temporary suspension for repairs.

—Though the new furnace of the Edkerts, in Reading, Pa., is ready to be blown in, it will not be started.

—The trial of Udderzook on the charge of killing Winfield S. Goss, was begun at West Chester yesterday morning.

—Out in Ceylon the marriage ceremony is performed by tying the couple together by the thumbs. In this country they are usually put together by the ears.

—Williamsport dealers are trying who can sell coal oil the cheapest. They have brought it down to 20 cents a gallon. We hope our dealers may have a slight attact of "bears" of that character.

—We have had the golden age, the iron age, the greenback age, and it seems that we are now to have the "silver age." Let us hope that it may be the "silver lining" to the black panic cloud that lately overshadowed the country.

—And now the Isrealites step forward to express their sympathy with the objects and aims of the Evangelical Alliance. If doctrinal points, say the Jewish Messenger, separate the Jew and the Christian, both base their aspirations on the same Book.

—Do all he would, the father of a bright Philadelphia boy could not induce him to shut the door after him. One day he gave the youth a severe talk upon the subject, which only resulted in the reply: "It's no use, papa, shutting the door belongs to the lost arts."

—Jacob Francis, aged eighty-five, and the oldest fiddler in Eastern Pennsylvania, died at Pottstown on the 18th ult. For three score and ten years he had drawn the hairs of the horse's tail across the dried intestines of the feline, for the delectation of rustic lass and swain.

—All the Reading banks are again paying checks of any amount, when the money is actually to be used. The savings bank during the stringency had business and manufacturing indorsement exceeding ten millions dollars. Business is quite good, the manufactories are all going on as usual.

—Messrs. E. W. Clark & Co., and the Union Banking Co., both of which suspended payment in Philadelphia at the beginning of the panic, have arranged with their creditors and resumed business. These with Jay Cooke & Co., (who show no sign of resuming) were the principal failures in that city at that time.

—Persons rambling about the fields and woods should not meddle with the plant known as poison vive (thes toxicodendron). It is a beautiful, bright-colored creeper, often to be seen clinging to old fences, walls and trees. Contact with it results in very disagreeable consequences to most persons.

—On Monday of last week a little son of R. McLelland, living near Comly, Montour county, aged about three years received a slight cut on the end of one of his fingers from a pair of scissors. The end of the finger was severed only a little more than skin deep. The cut continued to drop blood in spite of all efforts to stop the bleeding, until the parents became alarmed and applied to a physician. The doctor recommended an application that soon stopped the bleeding. On Thursday night the attention of the parents was attracted by the unnatural breathing of the child, and in the twinkling of an eye, almost, he was dead.

—There are in Manayunk, a suburb of Philadelphia, some fifteen or twenty cotton mills, 6,000 hands, when running Of these establishments all but three have suspended operations, or are at present negotiating with their former employees for a resumption of work at a fair compensation. The general complaint is that a market cannot be found for the goods after they are manufactured, and the producers are afraid to risk the working up of the raw material for a prospective trade. The manufacturers also foresee a decline in the price of cotton, and to make up goods at the present high rate, and attempting to compete with the mills which will manufacture at the expected low prices, would prove ruinous.

BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN

BELLEFONTE, PA.

A SIGN-BOARD.

I will paint you a sign, rum-seller,
And hang it above your door;
A truer and better sign-board
Than ever you had before.
I will paint with the skill of a master,
And many shall pause and see
This wonderful piece of painting,
So like the reality.

I will paint yourself, rum-seller,
As you wait for the fair young boy
Just in the morn of manhood,
A mother's pride and joy.
He has no thought of stopping,
But you greet him with a smile,
And you seem so blithe and friendly
That he pauses to chat awhile

I will paint you again, rum-seller;
I will paint you as you stand
With a foaming glass of liquor
Holding in either hand.
He wavers, but you urged him;
"Drink! pledge me just this one!"
And he lifts the glass and drains it,
And the hellish work is done.

And I next will paint a drunkard,
Only a year has flown,
But into this loathsome creature,
The fair young boy has grown.
The work was quick and rapid;
I will paint him as he lies
In a torpid, drunken slumber,
Under the wintry sky.

I will paint the form of the mother
As she kneels at her darling's side
Her beautiful boy, that was dearer
Than all the world beside.
I will paint the shape of the coffin
Labeled with one word—"Lost!"
I will paint all this, rum-seller,
And paint it free of cost.

The sin, the shame, and the sorrow,
The crime, and want, and woe,
That is born there in your rum-shop
No hand can paint, you know;
But I'll paint you a sign, rum-seller,
And many shall pause to view
This wonderful swinging sign-board,
So terribly, fearfully true.

Agricultural.

☞ NOTE.—We earnestly desire that this epartment of our paper shall be made as useful as possible to our Agricultural friends, and therefore extend a cordial invitation to all parties interested, to favor us with contributions. Individuals who have made useful experiments and yet do not feel competent to write them out in form for publication, if they will favor us with the results we will take pleasure in putting them in proper shape.

Farmer's Sons.

There are tens of thousands of farmer's boys throughout the country who are dissatisfied with the life they lead. They go about their daily life as if it was so much drudgery forced upon them. They have no love for the farm, no taste for the labor which it demands,—their hearts are not in their work. They stick to it through necessity, and spend half their days in idle dreams over some happy combination of circumstances that will lead them to seek their fortune in some populous city. They have read of some poor friendless lad who shouldered his bundles and turned his face toward some great city, found friends there who gave him employment and helped him up the ladder of fame and wealth, and they think that his chances would be theirs if they had but courage to face the music as he did. They forget that where one country boy bettered his condition by city experience a thousand made theirs worse than before. The rare exceptions of success find a place on the record, but the countless failures that go to make the rule are passed by unnoticed. City life is ruin and death to thousands who enter it. Its victims come largely from the country districts. Foolish young men who were reared on farms, had good homes and kind friends, are to be found struggling to obtain a living in some obscure place where the sunshine never enters. Temptations surround them; some may stand, but the majority fall, and go to swell the fearful current of vice that sweeps through our populous cities.

A word of advice to farmer's boys: If you are tired of farm life and have some well defined idea of what you can do in a great city, go if you feel that you have the requisite courage and resolution to face the temptations that will beset you. If you are sick of the farm, and don't know what you would do in the great city, but feel that in the great crowds of business men that you would meet, something would "turn up" to help you, stay just where you are, abandon your idle dreams, get over your farm sickness, and go to work in earnest. Take an interest in the farm. If you find the farm too small, buy more land; make it large enough to satisfy your energies, or, if too large, cut it down until it suits. The moment you drop your city fancies that moment you become a new man. You will stop complaining, labor will be light on your shoulders, and the old farm will look attractive for the first time since early boyhood, and you have made the first step towards an honorable career in the most useful and honorable profession.

This is the season when rabbits make such havoc in barking young orchard trees. Paint the trees from the ground up so high that the rabbits cannot reach them, with tanner's oil. A rabbit will not touch a tree thus protected.

Good Farming vs. Poor Farming.

"Farming is played out," says one "Our land is exhausted says another. "I tell you," says the squire, who owns three farms and has just bought another, "we can't stand these high wages." "We shall have to go back to the old-fashioned plan of plowing under clover, "says the deacon, and as usual he is more than half right. In fact, there is some truth in all these opinions; but no one of them, it seems to me, fully meets the case.—To say that "farming is played out" is about as reasonable as to say that men can live without eating. And yet it is quite true that there is a kind of farming that is no longer profitable. I wish it was played out. Our land is not exhausted.—Wages are not too high. But what are you going to do about it? Plowing under clover will help a good deal, but we need something more and better. In years past we have had as poor crops as now, and poorer prices. But our expenses were not so large. If we go back to old-fashioned farming we must go back to old-fashioned mode of living. In a drive of a few miles recently, I passed six or eight farm houses where the young people were playing croquet. One farmer was himself mowing the grass with a lawn mower. A stranger would not suspect that times were hard.

The truth is, farming is not up to the age; and instead of looking back we must push forward. Our expenses are far greater than formerly. We live better, dress better and have more comforts. We do not want to give up these advantages. we do not want to travel by stage, or go back to bake ovens and tallow candles.

Old-fashioned farming was all very well, and so was old-fashioned living. The two went very well together. But modern farm-life and old-style agriculture cannot long continue. One or the other must be abandoned.

Farm implements, tools and machines are vastly superior to those we had twenty-five years ago. So are our facilites for marketing our produce. But do we raise any more or better grass than when it had to be cut with a seythe! We have better ploughs, harrows and cultivators,—but is our land cleaner and mellower?

Farming is certainly behind the age, and there is a grand opportunity for those able and willing to push ahead. Farmers have to compete with each other at home and abroad, and that man will make the most money who can raise the best articles at the least cost. If there any unjust laws, taxes or monopolies injurious to agriculture, let us do all we can to remove them. This is simply our duty. But in the meantime let us not forget to improve our farms, our stock and ourselves.

The great remedy for our troubles is better farming. This is a very unpopular docterine, but it is true. Make your lands more rich, mellow and free from weeds, every year, and thus secure larger and better crops, thus attempting to keep pace with the advancement in other business.

Some time ago we published a plea for the hog as deserving a high price in the estimation of the farmer, in his endeavor to raise what is most valuable and profitable. We allude to the almost universal use of pork in its various forms, and thought we showed it to be both a luxury and a necessity in our domestic economy. In view of these things we wonder at the apparently meagre interest that farmers take in the improvement of swine. Not that there has not been a great advance over the rough, raw-bone and large-eared animals of years gone by. But there has been less effort to improve the breeds of swine and produce those qualities which mark the best animals with certainty, than in almost any other branch of live stock breeding. A pig is a pig with most farmers, and yet Mr. Harris has shown us that no animal will so well repay good care and attention as the hog, and none can be so readily impoved. we have however but few good breeds of swine; and at our cattle shows, from the specimens exhibited, one would suppose the pig was an animal of small account, and rare, rather than so common as to be found on every farm in the country we think here is a point that ought to be looked to.—Lowell Jour.

The peelers of onions in Bedfordshire, England, where this crop is raised by the acre, and prepared for pickling in eighteen gallon casks, find that when the onions are peeled under water, the eyes are not affected or only slightly so, and thus one fertile source of tears is dried up forever.

Serving Milk To Customers.—An enterprising milkman of Elmira, N. Y., furnishes his customers with milk put up in glass. It ought and will no doubt make him popular among his customers. In his wagon are arranged racks containing quart and pint bottles filled with pure, fresh milk, full measure. These bottles are delivered as required, the customer returning the bottle left the day before; no pitchers, pails or bowls being necessary. Another advantage of this system, especially in warm weather, is that each bottle is tightly corked and can be laid in a pail or pan of cold water, keeping it fresh and sweet or put away in a cooler, taking up but little room.

The hay crop of the New England States would seem to be with them as important a staple as the cotton crop is to the Southern States. The Crop of Maine this year is worth as much in the Boston and New York markets as the cotton crop of Georgia. The yield is not less than 1,600,000 tons. It sells to-day in Boston at thirty dollars a ton, which amounts to the princely sum of $48,000,000.—The cotton crops of Georgia this year is estimated at 600,000 bales of four hundred pounds each.—This, at twenty cents a pound, would also bring in the Boston market $48,000,000.

Personal Defamation, in a political contest, is but a poor, miserable weapon. Last year the Democrats in this State tried it to their hearts' content, and were punished terribly for it; but they were not satisfied with that experience, and have this year repeated the vile slanders that proved so futile in last year's campaign. The low abuse that was in 1872 poured out upon Governor Hartranft was again resorted to, against Mr. Mackey, and with a similar result; General Hartranft obtained the unexampled majority of over 35 000, and the State Treasurer, in the teeth of similar vilification. has been re-elected by a majority nearly the same. The Democrats of this State have, therefore, tested the uselessness of this weapon in two encounters, and it is to be hoped that they will now consent to throw it aside. They have done themselves no good by persisting in its use, and they have done our party no harm; and if they are not utterly devoid of sense they will learn, from this experience, that decency and gentlemanliness count for more, in the long run, than wallowing in the mire of personal filth.

A Texas editor, whose midnight oil must have failed just as he was going to press, prints the follwing energetic opinion: "The man who would water petroleum and sell it, would sneak into the palace of the king of kings and steal the gilding from the wings of angels." The sufferer could hardly have been more vigorous in his denunciation if he had caught somebody watering his whisky.

—The caution of the New Englander, in giving an answer to a direct question, was illustrated to me, says a correspondent, the other day, when I asked an eastern friend of mine, whose family were not noted for very active habits, "Was not your father's death very sudden?" Slowly drawing one hand from his pocket, and pulling down his beard, the interrogated cautiously replied, "Waal, rather sudden for him."

The people of Georgia are paying new and active attention to education. A tax of one-half of one per cent is levied upon the real estate of the city of Atlanta for educational purposes alone. The consequence is that large numbers of the best citizens in the State move to Atlanta to obtain the benefit of her well regulated public free schools.

Just the worst tyhpographical error on record has befallen the Niles (Ind.) Democrat, which printed a pathetic obituary closing with a statement made by the compositor on his own responsibility, that the lamented and lost "is not dead but squeaketh," which reminds us of the dead squeaking and gibbering in the Roman streets.

A Touch of Pathos.—A mournful story is told of a Maine editor: "The winds of autumn will soon whistle shrilly; the goose flies southward; the air speaks of snow and ice; everything betokens that in a few weeks circuses and snake shows will be no more!"

A nice Scotch lady is announced in Boston to lecture on "The Art of Pleasing." We are happy to say that a great many good women are continually delivering practical and useful lectures on that subject without knowing it.

ENOCH MORGAN'S SONS'

SAPOLIO is a substitute for Soap for all Household purposes, except washing clothes.

SAPOLIO for Cleaning your House will save the labor of one cleaner. Give it a trial.

SAPOLIO for Windows is better than Whiting or Water. No removing curtains or carpets

SAPOLIO cleans Paint and Wood, in fact the whole house, better than Soap. No slopping.—Saves labor. You can't afford to be without it SAPOLIO for Scouring Knives is better and cleaner than Bath Brick. Will not scratch.

SAPOLIO is better than Soap and Sand for polishing Tinware. Brightens without scratching.

SAPOLIO Polishes Brass and Copper utensils better than Acid or Oil and Rotten Stone.

SAPOLIO for Washing Dishes and Glassware is invaluable. Cheaper than Soap.

SAPOLIO removes Stanes from Marble Mantels, Tables and Statuary, from Hard-finished Walls, and from China and Porcelain.

SAPOLIO removes Stains and Grease from Carpets or other woven fabrics.

There is no one article known that will do so many kinds of work and do it as well as Sapolio. Try it.

HAND SAPOLIO a new and wonderfully effective Toilet Soap, having no equal in this country or abroad.

HAND SAPOLIO as an article for the Bath. "reaches the foundation" of all dirt, opens the pores and gives a healthy action and brilliant tint to the skin.

HAND SAPOLIO Cleanses and Beautifies the Skin, instantly removing any stain or blemish from both hands and face.

HAND SAPOLIO is without a rival in the world for curing or preventing roughness and chapping of either hands or face.

HAND SAPOLIO removes Tar, Pitch, Iron or Ink Stains and Grease; for workers in Machine Shops, Mines, &c., is invaluable. For making the Skin White and soft, and giving to it a "bloom of beauty," it is unsurpassed by any Cosmetic known.

HAND SAPOLIO costs 10 to 15 cents per cake, and everybody should have it. You will like it.

DON'T FAIL TO TRY THESE GOODS

LETTER FROM WASHINGTON.

[Correspondence of the REPUBLICAN.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 24, 1873.

EX-PRESIDENT JOHNSON'S SPEECH.

Our old grandmother—how dear the recollection!—was never at a loss for remedies for all our childish ailments. It mattered not whether our affliction was merely a bruised toe or the most malignant form of fever her resources were never exhausted. And more than this, all the neighbor boys' grandmothers were just like her. These dear old ladies all "put their heads together" and they concocted all kinds of conspiracies, they manufactured all manner of bitter teas and tasteless broths, they put us through every imaginable sort of sweating process, they did—what did they not do? Yet we survived it all.

Just so is it with a great many men, only they take larger matters under consideration. The nation is sick, and they set themselves to work to manufacture the nostrums necessary to restore it to a condition of financial health. We of this city were treated to a case of this kind last night. Andrew Johnson, Esq., ex-President, ex-Senator, ex-M. C., ex-Governor and ex-alderman, made a speech from the balcony of the Metropolitan Hotel, in which he attempted to enlighten the public as to the troubles of the nation and prescribe the remedies necessary to rid the body politic of all its diseases.

Andrew Johnson is a garrulous old grandmother. We have seen such before. We have seen those old ladies who crone away for hours and when they have done talking no one can tell what they have been saying. It is so in the case of the ex-President. Having listened attentively to his speech last night I came away with a dim, vague impression that there was something the matter with the "constitution" that the 'constitution' was broken down, and that we had no "constitution" in fact, that all had gone wrong, that the country was ruined, that corruption had run riot. Still I could not point out just what was the matter. The liberties of the people had been destroyed. All that remained of the Republic was the name. All else was gone. A monstrous despotism had taken the place of the once great and glorious Republic.

I went to hear the ex-President because it had been given out that he would speak on two subjects which interested me; first, the question of the responsibility for the execution of Mrs. Surratt; second, the finances of the country.

I was disappointed. The name of Mrs. Surratt was not spoken. On the question of finances he talked for at least half an hour, but what was said I cannot tell. I read the full reports in the morning papers, and I know still less. It was a meaningless jargon. About all I could gather was that he was opposed to the national banks; that he favored the replacement of national bank notes by greenbacks. If he had any other remedy for financial ills I was not able to discover it.

THE OCTOBER REPORT OF THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

contains returns from a large proportion of the counties producing the corn crop of the United States. This is the last report of the season upon the condition of the crop. The final report of the quantity will be issued hereafter. The general average is given as 84, which is smaller than that reported at this time last year. It was then reported at 108. The crop of last year was estimated at 1,092 millions of bushels. Taking into consideration the fact that the area planted has been diminished four per cent. it is thought that the crop will be decreased by 250 millions of bushels. The only States returning average conditions are Georgia, Florida, Arkansas, California and Oregon. The other averages are as follows; Maine, 85; New Hampshire, 99; Vermont, 97; Massachusetts, 97; Connecticut, 89; New York, 89; New Jersey, 99; Pennsylvania, 93; Delaware. 76; Maryland, 51; Virginia, 99; North Carolina, 95; South Carolina, 89; Alabama, 92; Mississippi, 86; Louisiana, 92; Texas, 78; Tennessee, 91; West Virgina, 96; Kentucky, 94; Ohio, 88; Michigan, 89; Indiana, 84; Illinois, 67; Wisconsin, 88; Minnesota, 97; Iowa, 81; Missouri, 76; Kansas, 66; Nebraska 77.

—The Philadelphia papers, since the proposal was made to arrest all street musicians as vagrants, have received many protests against such action, on the ground that the street musicians furnish the only music that can be enjoyed by the poor little children of the back streets, and that their arrest and prohibition will deprive such children of one of their pleasures and enjoyments.

——A hartford bricklayer let fall a brick from a fourth story upon the shoulder of a man passing beneath. The man paused for a moment, and then with a voice trembling with emotion, shouted: "Hit you dropped a brick." The bricklayer, who was looking over the edge of the scaffold to see if the brick was damaged, was pleased to find that it was not hurt, and cheerfully answered, "All right, you needn't mind bringing it up."

WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR CONSUMPTION
which can be cured by a timely resort to this standard preparation, as has been proved by the hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors. It is acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most reliable preparation ever introduced for the relief and cure of all Lung complaints, and is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years. When resorted to in season it seldom fails to effect a speedy cure in the most severe cases of Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza, Asthma, Colds, Sore Throat, Pains or Soreness in the Chest and Side, Liver Complaint, Bleeding at the Lungs, &c. Wistar's Balsam does not dry up a Cough, and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs, and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

VINEGAR BITTERS
VEGETABLE FREE FROM ALCOHOL
PURELY DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA
EUREKA
VINEGAR BITTERS

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

The properties of DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are Aperient, Diaphoretic, Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ringworms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

PENNS VALLEY ITEMS FROM THE REPORTER.

—Nearly all the teachers engaged for the Haines township schools, came from Brushvalley.

—Judge Hosterman, on last Tuesday morning, had another severe attack of apoplexy, imparing his speech.

—Tolls are now collected at the West end of Aaronsburg. The toll-house is a handsome one, and Jack Hosterman is the gate keeper.

—On last Saturday morning we had the heaviest rost of the season, so far, and on Tuesday afternoon following a rain and snow storm.

—H. B. Van Valzah, son of Dr. Van Valzah of Spring Mills, located at Clearfield, a few mohths ago, in the practice of his profession. The Dr. was in on a visit last week, and seems to be pleased with his prospect. Succes to him.

—Mr. Michael Rishel at Spring Bank, has the Essex Breed of Hogs which he claims is the largest and best breed of pigs in the State. He is now fattening one which will weigh 800. Mr. Rishel purchased the pigs of Mr. Tipten, at Marsh Creek, Centre county. Brush and Penns Valley farmers should call on Mr. Rishel, as it will cost them but two dollars to improve their stock.

—A pleasing sight, in the M. E. Church, at Aaronsburg, last Sabbath, was that 17 persons uniting with the Church. Among the number we noticed two husbands with their wives taking upon themselves the solemn obligations. All were young people, none having reached middle age. As they have lived faithfully during a six months probation, it is to be hoped that they will prove faithful through life.

——We copy the following item from the Centre Hall Reporter, and commend it to the careful consideration of our readers.

As winter is fast appraching, it now becomes neccessary to black up the old stoves or buy new ones, and provide a supply of desirable fuel. Some use wood as a matter of custom, while others resort to the use of anthracite coal as a source of the greatest economy and comfort. In speaking of anthracite coal, we are reminded that the old Baltimore coal Company's Wilkes Barre coal is the best quality, produces the greatest amount of heat, and contains less slate than any other coal that is now being brought to Centre county. This coal is more costly and troublesome to get, from the fact that it has to be brought to Lock Haven by canal, from whence it is transfered to cars on Bald Eeagle Vally R. R. To enable them to get their coal less, Shortlidge & Co., have a transfer wharf at Lock Haven, who are now the only dealers in Centre county, that supply their customers with this celebrated coal. In our judgment the best is always the cheapest, therefore we feel justifiable in saying, that consumers of anthracite coal will save money by buying their coal from Messrs. Shortlidge & Co., near the depot, Bellefonte.

——The next Institute, under the auspices of the Centre county Sabbath School Association, will be held in the Disciple Church, Curtin township, on Thursday, November 26, commencing at 9½ A. M. A scholars' session will be held in the afternoon of the same day. Speakers are engaged. One or more of the officers of the Associations will be present. All persons who come to spend the day, except those living in the vicinity of the church are requested to bring with them a basket lunch for dinner. A general and cordial invitation is extended. By order of the Ex. Com.

H. Y. STITZER, Rec. Sec.

——Before you buy your groceries go to Burnside & Thomas's.

——Immense bargains, great rush at Burnside & Thomas.

—Compared with the unnumbered blessings and benefits which the Demeeracy promise to bestow upon the country when they obtain control of affairs, Jack Cade's millennium was nowhere. Stripped of their vague verbosity, these glowing assurances mean no more than what is implied by the old adage that "reformed rakes make the best husbands." But how may wives have practically found it so?

——We omitted to mention the fact, in our last week's report of the dedication of school-house in Half Moon, that S. D. Gray, Esq., made an excellent address on that occasion.

Twenty three premiums for quilts and four premiums for woolen hose (one to each exhibitor,) were also awarded, but as only one premium for the best quilt, and one premium for the best pair of woolen hose was offered, and it can hardly be pretended that all these were equally meritorious, it was deemed best by the committee charged with the revision of the list of awards to treat the report. as if no award had been made in regard to these two articles. In so doing they believed they will have the approval of nearly if not quite all the parties interested.

Prospectus for 1874—Seventh Year.

THE ALDINE.

An Illustratted Monthly Journal, Univesally admitted to be the handsomest periodical in the world. A representative and champion of American taste.

NOT FOR SALE IN BOOK OR NEWS STORES.

THE ALDINE, while issued with all the gularity, has none of the temporary or timely interest charracteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscellany of pure, light and graceful literature; and a collection of pict the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in and white. Although each succeeding nu affords a fresh pleasant to its friends, the real value and beauty of THE ALDINE will be met appreciated after it has been bound up at the close of the year. While other publications may claim superior cheapness, as compared with rivals of a smilar class, THE ALDINE is a unique and original conception—alone and unapproached—absolutely without competition in price or character. The possessor of a complete volume cannot duplicate the quantity of fine paper and engravings in any other shape or number of volumes for ten times its cost; and then, there are the chromos, besides!

ART DEPARTMENT, 1874.

The illustrations of THE ALDINE have won the world-wide reputation, and in the art centres of Europe it is an admitted fact that its wood cuts are examples of the highest perfection ever attained. The common prejudice in favor of "steel plates," is rapidly yielding to a more educated and discriminating taste which recognizes the advantages of superior artistic quality with greater facility of production.—The wood-cuts of THE ALDINE poesess all the delicacy and elaborate finish of the most costly steel plate, while they afford a better rendering of the artist's original.

To fully realize the wonderful work which THE ALDINE is doing for the cause of art culture in America, it is only necessary to consider the cost to the people of any other decent representations of the productions of great painters.

In addition to designs by the members of the National Academy, and other noted American artists, THE ALDINE will produce examples of the best foreign masters, selected with a view to the highest artistic success and greatest general interest. Thus the subscriber to THE ALDINE will, at a trifling cost, enjoy in his own home the pleasures and refining influences of true art.

The quarterly tinted plants for 1874 will be by Thos. Moran and J. D. Woodward.

The Christmas issue for 1874 will contain special design appropriate to the season, by our best artists, and will surpass in attractions any of its predecessors.

PREMIUM FOR 1874.

Every subscriber to THE ALDINE for the year 1874 will receive a pair of chromos. The original pictures were painted in oil for the publishers of THE ALDINE, by Thomas Moran, whose great Colorado picture was purchased by Congress for ten thousand dollars. The subjects were chosen to represent "The East" and "The West." One is a view in The White Mountains, New Hampshire; the other gives The Cliffs of Green River, Wyoming Territory. The difference in the nature of the scenes themselves is a pleasing contrast, and affords a good diplay of the artist's scope and coloring. The chromos are each worked from thirty distinct plates, and are in size (12 x 10) and appearance exact fac-similies of the original. The presentation of a worthy example of America's greatest landscape painter to the subscribers of THE ALDINE was a bold but peculiarly happy idea, and its successful realization is attested by the following testimonial, over the signature of Mr. Moran himself.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept 29th, 1873.

MESSRS. JAMES SUTTON & Co.

Gentlemen,—I am delighted with the proofs in color of your chromos. They are wondrefully successful representations by mechanical process of the original paintings.

Very respectfully,
(Signed,) THOS. MORAN.

These chromos are in every sense American They are by an original American process with material of American manufacture, from designs of American scenery by an American painter, and presented to subscribers to the first successful American Art Journal. If no better because of all this, they will certainly possess an interest on foreign production can inspire, and neither are they the worse if by reason of peculiar facilities of production they cost the publishers only a trifle, while equal in every respect to other chromos that are sold single for double the subscription price of THE ALDINE Persons of taste will prize these pictures for themselves—not for the price they did or did not cost, and will appreciate the enterprise that renders their distribution possible.

If any subscriber should indicate a preference for a figure subject, the publishers will send "Thoughts of Home," a new and beautiful chromo, 14 x20 inches, representing a little Italian exile whose speaking eyes betray the longings of his heart.

TERMS.

$5 per annum, in advance, with Oil Chromo free. For 50 cents extra, the chromos will be sent, mounted, varnished, and prepaid by mail.

THE ALDINE will, hereafter, be obtainable only by subscription. There will be no reduced or club rate; cash for subscriptions must be sent to the publisers direct, or handed to the local canvasser, without reponsibility to the publishers, except in cases where the certificate is given, bearing the facsimile signature o James Sutton &Co.

TO THE CITIZENS OF PENNSYLVANIA.—Your attention is specially invited to the fact that the National Banks are now prepared to receive subscription to the Capital Stock of the Centennial Board of Finance. The funds realized from this source are to be employed in the erection of the buildings for the International Exhibition, and the expenses connected with the same. It is confidently believed that the Keystone State will be represented by the name of every citizen alive to patriotic commemoration of the one hundred birth-day of the nation. The shares of stock are offered for $10 each, and subscribers will recieve a handsomely steel engraved Certificate of Stock, suitable for framing and preservation as a national memorial.

Interest at the rate of six per cent per annum will be paid on all payments of Centenial Stock from date of payment to January 1, 1876.

Subscribers who are not near a National Bank can remit a check or post-office order to the undersigned.

COSMOLINE is the concentrated extract of the healing properties of Petroleum, which are known. It is the most bland and soothing-remedy ever used; beside possessing more healing power than any substance or compound ever prepared. It is for almost all the daily casualties which occur in household, the workshop, or on the farm, as well as for many of the diseases which afflict humanity.

FOR BURNS AND SCALDS

It is invaluable, cooling and soothing the injured parts at once, and producing a perfect cure in a very short time, without leaving any scars. For this purpose alone, it is

A BLESSING TO THE WORLD,

FOR FROSTED LIMBS, COSMOLINE is fully as efficacious as for burns and scalds, restoring a healthy action to the injured parts very quickly. It is also the best possible remedy for Chilblains and Chapped Hands.

FOR RHEUMATISM especially Inflammatory, most forms of NEURALGIA, swelling of Limbs or Glands, COSMOLINE affords in the shortest possible time the HAPPIEST RELIEF.

On CUTS AND BRUISES, the action of COSMOLINE is almost magical. If promptly applied, it prevents soreness, and the wounds heal very rapidly.

FOR PILES, it has proved to be an unequalled remedy, and many a sufferer has blessed the day of its introduction.

FOR SKIN DISEASES we can recommend it with the greatest confidence, especially for Salt. Rheum, Tetter, Eczema, etc., and Teething humours.

We might go on enumerating the many other conditions for which it is unequalled, but will only add that wherever there is inflammation from any cause, COSMOLINE brings a rapid and happy relief, and will be the dependence under all circumstances. COSMOLINE is Prescribed by the best physicians, both allopathic and homeopathic. It is but nature's own production, brought into an agreeable and pleasant condition, and is as safe to use anywhere as fresh cream.

HOUSEHOLD SURGEON'S

NOT A PATENT MEDICINE,

Manhood: How Lost, How Restored?

Just published, a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical cure (without medicine) of SPERMATORRHŒA or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Seminal losses, Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., also, Consumption, Epilepsy and Fits, induced by self-indulgence or sexual extravagance.

☞ Price in a sealed envelope only six cents.

The celebrated author, in this admirable essay, clearly demonstrates from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once, simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Sent under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, post-paid on receipt of six cents, or two post stamps.

Poetry.

"ROCK OF AGES."

"Rock of Ages, cleft for me,"
Thoughtlessly the maiden sung;
Fell the word unconsciously
From the girlish, gleeful tongue;
Sang as little children sing—
Sang as sing the birds in June;
Fell the words like light leaves down
On the current of the tune—
"Rock of Ages, cleft for me,
Let me hide myself in Thee."

Let me hide myself in Thee,
Felt herself no need to hide;
Sweet the song as sweet could be,
And she had no thought beside;
All the words unheedingly
Fell from lips untouched with care,
Dreaming not they each might be
On some other lips a prayer;
"Rock of Ages, cleft for me,
Let me hide myself in Thee."

"Rock of Ages, cleft for me—"
'Twas a woman sung them now;
Rose the song as storm-tossed bird
Beats with weary wing the air,
Every note with sorrow stirred,
Every syllable a prayer—
"Rock of Ages, cleft for me,
Let me hide myself in Thee."

"Rock of Ages, cleft for me,"
Lips grown aged sung the hymn
Trustingly and tenderly;
Voice grown weak and eyes grown dim,
"Let me hide myself in Thee,"
Trembling through the voice and low—
Run the sweet stream peacefully
Like a river in its flow,
Sung as only they can sing
Who life's thorny path have trod;
Sung as only they can sing
Who behold the promised rest—
"Rock of Ages, cleft for me,
Let me hide myself in Thee."

"Rock of Ages, cleft for me,"
Sung above a coffin lid;
Underneath, all restfully,
All life's joys and sorrows hid,
Nevermore, O storm-tossed soul,
Nevermore from wind or tide,
Nevermore from billow's roll
Will thou need to hide.
Could the sightless, sunken eyes,
Closed beneath the soft, grey hair;
Could the mute and stiffened lips
Move again in pleading prayer,
Still aye still, the words would be:
"Let me hide myself in Thee."

Our Story Teller.

THE DARK NIGHT.

"I can't stand it any longer, Jane, I'll go out and perhaps something will turn up for us."

"It's a cold night, Robert."

"Cold, yes! But it's not much colder outside than in. It would have been much better if you had married John Tremain," he said bitterly.

"Don't say that Robert; I've never regretted my choice."

"Not even now, when there is not a loaf of bread in the house for you and the children?"

"Not even now, Robert. Don't be discouraged, God has not forsaken us. Perhaps this evening the tide will turn, and better days may dawn upon us to-morrow."

Robert Brice shook his head despondingly.

"You are more hopeful than I, Jane. Day after day I have been in search of employment. I have called at fifty places, only to receive the same reply everywhere."

Just then little Jimmy, who had been asleep, woke up.

"Mother" he pleaded, "won't you give me a piece of bread, I am so hungry?"

"There is no bread, Jimmy darling," said the mother with an aching heart.

"When will there be some?" asked the child piteously.

Tears came to the mother's eyes. She knew not what to say.

"Jimmy, I'll bring you some bread?" said the father hoarsely, as he seized his hat and went to the door.

His wife, alarmed, laid her hand upon his sleeve. She saw the look in his eyes, and feared to what step desperation might lead him.

"Remember, Robert," she said solemnly, "it is hard to starve, but there are things that are worse."

He shook off her hand, but not roughly, and without a word, passed out.

Out in the cold streets! They would be his only home next, he thought. For a brief time longer he had the shelter of a cheerless room in a tenement house, but the rent would become due at the end of the month, and he had nothing to meet it.

Robert Brice was a mechanic, competent and skillful. Three years since he lived in a country village, where his expenses were moderate, and he found no difficulty in meeting them. But in an evil hour he grew tired of his village home, and he removed to the city. For a while he met with good success, but he found the tenement house in which he was obliged to live a poor substitute for the neat little cottage which he had occupied in the country. He saw his mistake, but was too proud to go back.

"Of course I can't have as good accommodations here as in the country," he said; but it is something to live in and be in the midst of things."

"I'd rather be back again," said his wife. "Somehow the city don't seem like home. There I used to run in and take tea with a neighbor, and have a social time. Here I don't have any neighbors."

"You'll get used to it after a while," said her husband.

She did not think so, but she did not complain.

But the time of great depression came and with it suspension of business enterprises. Work ceased for Robert Brice and many others. If he had been in his old home, he could have turned his hand to something else, and, at worst, could have borrowed from his neighbors till better times. But the friendly relations arising from neighborhood do not exist in the city to the same extent as in the country. So, day by day, he saw his scanty sum of money passing away, and no one extended a helping hand. Day by day he went out to work, only to find himself one of a large number, all of whom were doomed to disappointment. If he had been alone, he could have got along somehow, but it was a sore trial to come to a cheerless room and a pale wife and hungry children, and no relief to offer them.

When, on that evening, Robert Brice went into the street, he hardly knew how he was going to redeem the promise he had made to little Jimmy. He was absolutely penniless, and had been so for three days. There was nothing he was likely to find to do that night.

"I will pawn my coat," he said at last, "I cannot see my wife and children starve."

It was a well worn over-coat, and that cold winter night he needed something more to keep him warm. Weakened by the enforced fast, he was more sensative to the cold, and he shivered as he walked along the pavement.

"Yes," he said, "my coat must go. I know not how I shall get along without it, but I cannot see the children starve before my eyes."

He was not, in general, an envious man, but, when he saw sleek, well-fed citizens, buttoned up to the throat in warm overcoats, come out of the brilliantly-lighted shops, provided with luxuries for happy children at home, while his were starving, he suffered some bitter thoughts upon the inequality of Fortune's gifts, to come to his mind.

Why should they be so happy, and he so miserable!

There was one man, shorter than himself, warmly clad, who passed him with his hands thrust deep into the pockets of his overcoat. There was a pleasant smile upon his face. He was, doubtless, thinking of the happy circle at home.

Robert knew him as a rich merchant, whose ample warehouse he had often passed. He applied to this man only two days before for employment, and had been refused. It was, perhaps, the thought of the difference between them, as far as outward circumstances went, that led Robert Brice to follow him.

After a while the merchant, Mr. Grimes, drew his handkerchief slowly from his pocket. He did not perceive that his pocket-book come with it, and fell to the sidewalk.

He did not perceive it, but Robert did; his heart leaped into his mouth, and a sudden thought entered his mind. He bent quickly down and picked up the pocket-book. He raised his eyes hastily to see if the movement was noticed. It was not.

The merchant went on unheeding his loss.

"This will buy bread for my wife and children," thought Robert, instantly.

A vision of the comfort which that would bring to that cheerless room lighted up his heart for an instant, but then, for he was not dishonest, there came another thought, the money was not his, much as he wanted it.

"But I cannot see my wife and children starve," he thought again. "If it is wrong to keep this money, God will understand my motive."

All this was sophistry, and he knew it. In a moment he felt it to be so. There was something worse than starvation. It was his wife that had said that just before he had come out. Could he meet her gaze when he returned with food so obtained?

"I have lived honest so far," he thought—"I won't turn thief now."

It was with an effort that he came to this decision; for all the while there was before his eyes that vision of a cheerless home, and he could hear Jimmy vainly asking for food. It was with an effort that he stepped forward and placed his hand on the merchant's shoulder, and extended the hand that held the pocket-book.

"Sir," he said, hoarsely, "you have dropped your pocket-book."

"Thank you," said the merchant, "I had not perceived my loss."

"You dropped it when you took out your handkerchief."

"And you saw it and picked it up. I am very much obliged to you."

"You have reason to be," said Robert, in a low voice. "I came very near keeping it."

"That would have been dishonest," said Mr. Grimes, his tone slightly altered.

"Yes, it would, but it's hard for a man to be honest when he is penniless, and his wife and children without a crust."

"Surely, you and your family are not in the condition!" said the merchant, earnestly.

"Yes," said Robert, "it is only too true."

"And you are out of work?"

"For two months I have vainly sought for work. I applied to you two days since."

"I remember you now. I thought I had seen you before. You still want work."

"I should feel grateful for it."

"A porter left me yesterday. Will you take his place at $12 a week?"

"Thankfully, sir; I will work for half that."

"Then come to-morrow morning, or to-morrow will be a holiday, the day succeeding. Meantime take this for your present necessities."

He drew from his pocket a bank note and put it in Robert's hand.

"It is fifty dollars," said Robert, amazed.

"I know it. This pocket-book contains $1,000. But for you I should have lost the whole."

"God bless you, sir; good night," said Robert.

"Good night."

Jane waited for her husband, in the cold and cheerless room, which for a few days longer, she might call her home.

"Do you think father will bring me some bread?" asked little Jimmy, as he nestled in her lap.

"I hope so, darling," she said: but her heart misgave her. She feared it, was a delusive hope.

An hour passed; there was a step on the stairs—her husband's it could not be, for this was a cheerful, elastic step, coming up two steps at a time. She looked eagerly at the door.

Yes, it was he. The door opened. Robert, radiant with joy, entered with a basket full of substantial provisions.

"Have you some bread, father," asked Jimmy, hopefully.

"Yes, Jimmy, some bread and meat from a restaurant, and here's a little tea and sugar. There's a little wood left Jane, let's have a brilliant and comfortable night."

"How did it happen? Tell me Robert."

So Robert told his wife, and soon a bright fire lighted the hitherto cheerless room.

The next week they moved to a better home. They have never since known what it is to want. Robert found a firm friend in the savings bank, and has reason to remember with a grateful heart God's goodness on the eve of temptation.

The Dark Day in New England, in 1780.

On the 19th of May 1780, the inhabitants of New England and the adjacent parts were the trembling witnesses of a phenomenon never seen before nor since, and which to this day remains unexplained. The year was celebrated for its numerous auroral exhibitions in this latitude. They covered the midnight heavens with corruscations of red and silver, and streamed out like lightning, seeming, says one writer, fairly to flash warmth in the face. The winter preceding was marked by extraordinary severity. Snow lay on the ground from the middle of November to the middle of April. In December and January a storm continued for seven successive days, and the snow fell to a depth of four feet on a level in this single storm, and with drifts eight and ten feet high. Sheep were buried in the drifts for many days, and even men and animals perished with the cold. Long Island Sound was crossed by heavy artilery on the ice. Narragansett Bay froze over so hard that men traversed the ice from Providence to Newport in skating parties, and from Fall River to Newport loads of wood were conveyed on the ice through Bristol ferry.

Previous to the 19th a vapor filled the air for several days. There was a smell of sulphur. The morning of the 19th was overcast with some clouds, and rain fell over the country, with lighting and thunder. Scarcely any motion was in the air, what wind there was came from the Southwest. By nine o'clock in the forenoon, without previous warning, the darkness stole gradually on, with a luminous appearance near the horizon, as if the obscuring cloud had dropped down from overhead. There was a yellowness of the atmosphere that made clear silver assume a grass green hue. Then a dense, undefinable vapor settled rapidly and without aerial movement over all the land and ocean from Pennsylvania to the Gulf of St. Lawrence, the darkness it caused sinking by degrees until the sunlight was effectually shut out. Ordinary cloud it was not. The rapidity with which so large an extent of country was enveloped precludes the possibility of supposing this to have been a natural cloud moving laterally. Besides this, the day was too calm to imagine such a thing. Down came the darkness thicker and thicker. By ten o'clock the air was loaded with a thick gloom. The heavens were tinged with a yellowish or faint red; the lurid look increased; few, if any, ordinary clouds were visible. The sun, in disappearing, took on a brassy hue. The lurid, brassy color spread everywhere, above and below. The grass assumed the color of the sky, and all out doors wore a sickly, weird and melancholy aspect,—a dusky appearance as if seen through a smoked glass. By eleven o'clock it was as night itself, and from this time until three in the afternoon the darkness was extraordinary and frightful.

The extent of the darkness was greater than is related of any other similar phenomenon on record, not excepting the celebrated dark days over Egypt and Judea. It reached south to the northern half of Pennsylvania, and from thence along the coast northeast to the wilds of Maine, eastward to the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and out at sea 120 miles southeast of Boston, and undoubtedly much farther; west to the valleys of Lake Champlain the Hudson River, and north into undefined regions in Canada. Portland, Boston, Hartford, New York, West Point and Albany were affected by it. But the degrees of darkness differed in different places, the deepest night setting over New England. A tract of land and sea, 800 miles in length and 400 miles in breadth, embracing an area of 320,000 square miles, was known to be covered by the cloud, and so far as can be ascertained, a population of 700,000 souls sat for a portion of the day and in a gloom more or less profound and inexplicable.

Just how dark the day was, is attested by indisputable evidence. The hour and minute could not be discovered on the face of a clock or watch by persons of unimpaired eyesight. Candles became an absolute necessity both out door and in, as it was impossible to transact ordinary business without them. Fires on the hearthstone shone as brightly as on a moonless November evening, and all dinner-tables were set with lighted candles upon them as if it were the evening repast. The keenest eyes in doors could not see to read the common print. So far beyond any ordinary fog was the effect, that stages on the road either put up at the nearest hotel during the mid-day hours, or carried candles or lanterns to enable the perplexed driver to well see his way.

And the brute and feathered creation seemed puzzled and agitated. The birds ceased and hid themselves in the branches of the trees. As the darkness increased they sang their evening songs as they do at twilight, and then became silent. Pigeons on the wing took to the shelter of the forests as they do at night. The whip-poor-will, as if it were truly night, cheerfully sang his song through the gloomy hours. Woodcocks, which are night birds, whistled as they only do in the night time. Bats came out of their hiding places and flew about. The fowls marched solemnly to their roosts as they do at nightfall, and, after cackling for a while over the mystery of so short a day, became still. Cocks crowed as is their custom at nightly intervals and the early breaking of days. Frogs peeped their evening concert, and dogs whined or howled and ran away as on the approach of an earthquake. The herds of cattle on New England's thousand hills, sought the shelter of the shed or barnyard, lowing as they came to the gate, and the sheep huddled around the circle with their heads inward—the invariable token of apprehenedd danger.

On the human family the effect was still more curious and terrifying. The mechanic left his tools in the shop, the farmer his plow in the furrow, and each moved in silent and marveling mood toward the barn or dwelling. On the home threshold they were met by pale and anxious women, who tremblingly inquired, "What is coming?" The alarmed traveler, seeking the sympathy of his fellow man as one impressed with a sense of impending peril, put up at the nearest house, and mingled his anxious questionings and forebodings with those of the family. Strong men met and spoke with surprise on their countenances, and little children peered timidly into the deepening gloom, and then sought the sheltering parental arms. Schools broke up in affright, and the wondering pupils scampered homeward with many expressions of childish fear. The inevitable candle shone out of the windows of all dwellings, every countenance gathered blackness,—all hearts were filled with fear of an approaching unparalleld storm, or the occurence of a terrestrial convulsion; but it was not the blackness of the storm-cloud, such as sometimes, with frightful agitation, breaks over a single city; it was the silent spreading of the pallcloth over the earth by strong, invisible hands. Many anecdotes of terror are related. In Boston, from the hours of 11 or 1 to 3 o' clock, business was generally suspended and shops closed. At Groten, a court was in session in a meeting house full of large windows, as was the old style of houses of worship; but at half past eleven all faces began to wear a sober hue, whereupon magistrate and people followed suit with all New England, and called for lighted candles. Connecticut went totally under. The journal of her House of Representatives puts on record the fact that "None could see to read or write in the House, or even at a window, or distinguish persons at a small distance, or perceive any distinction of dress, &c., in the circle of attendants. Therefore, at eleven o'clock adjourned till two o'clock in the afternoon." Amid the deepening gloom that wrapped about the city, darkened the rooms of the State House, and set the law givers trembling with apprehension that the day of Judgement was at hand, when the motion for adjournment was made, Col. Abraham Davenport, afterward Judge of Stamford Conn., and State Councellor in the Legislative Chamber at Hartford, said: "I am against the adjournment. Either the Day of Judgement is at hand, or it is not. If it is not, there is no cause for adjournment. If it is, I wish to be found in the line of my duty. I wish candles to be brought.

The darkness of the day having been succeeded an hour or two before evening by a partially clear sky, and the shining of the sun still obscured by the black and vapory mist, this interval was followed by a return of the obscuration with greater density, that rendered the first half of the night hideously dark, beyond all former experience of probably a million of people who saw it.

The Woman's Congress.

The Subjects Discussed—Enlightened Motherhood—Higher Education of Women—Dress Reform—Co-Education of the Sexes, &c., &c.

SUMMARY.

The American Woman Suffrage Association held a very successful Anniversary and Annual Meeting in New York and Brooklyn, Oct, 13 and 14. The Convention was large. The proceedings were spirited and harmonious. Great enthusiasm prevailed. Col. T. Wentworth Higginson presided and made the opening address. Letters endorsing the movement, were read from Hon. George Wm. Curtis, Wm. Lloyd Garrison, Lydia Maria Child, Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, Louisa M. Alcott and others. Eighty-six delegates were present, representing organized societies in fourteen States and Territories. The Annual Report shows that Woman Suffrage is established and works well in Wyoming and Utah, that it was under discussion last winter, in 21 State Legislatures, and received a majority vote in those of Maine, Iowa and Michigan. Written reports were read from 17 States. Julia Ward Howe was elected President for the ensuing year; Lucy Stone, Chairman Executive Committee. Among the Vice Presidents at Large are Vice President Henry Wilson, Hon. George Wm. Curtis, Senator Sergeant, Wm. Lloyd Garrison and Col. Higginson. The resolutions adopted are as follows.

RESOLUTIONS.

Resolved, That the primary aim of the American Woman Suffrage Association is to secure the ballot for woman; while it includes, in its general aim, the establishment of her equality in all directions.

Resolved, That one-half of the adult population of the United States who are legally entitled to hold property, who are assessed for taxes and are punishable for crime, and whose interest in the Commonwealth is in no respect less than the other half, should not be deprived of an equal vote in the government.

Resolved, That a government of the people must be a government composed equally of men and women, inasmuch as an equal co-operation of the sexes is essential alike to a happy home, a refined society, Christian Church and a Republican State.

Resolved, That our present political system is not fairly representative, even of men, being largely controlled in the primary meetings by rings or trading politicians intent on private gain; that political reform must enlist a more general interest on the part of the people in the management of public business; and that this would be greatly promoted by combining the social sympathy and co-operation of woman in the primary meetings, at the polls, and in the halls of legislation.

Resolved, That we advise the friends of Woman Suffrage in every locality to promote the Movement morally and politically, by organizing local societies, for holding public meetings, for circulating tracts and newspapers, and especially for helping to elect the friends of Suffrage and to defeat its enemies.

Resolved, That the Woman Suffrage Movement, like every other reform of the Age, laments the loss and honors the memory of its most powerful advocate, John Stuart Mill.

To present practical methods to secure to women higher intellectual, moral, and physical conditions, and thus improve all domestic and social relations, was this Congress called. Subjects tending to promote this object were discussed. "Enlightened Motherhood," "Higher Education of Women," "Homes," and "Dress Reform," were the subjects chiefly discussed. The higher education of women was thoroughly discussed by Prof. Maria Mitchell, of Vasser College, a well known astronomer. She showed the necessity of a higher, deeper, more thorough education for women, if woman wishes to become successful as a teacher, or in any other department of life. The educated women of England receive much higher education than the large majority of our men graduates. It was an able paper, composed of facts obtained from personal observation in England and in this country.

Co-education of the sexes was advocated by many of the most able minds in Congress. Mrs. Soule, of New York, in an article advocating women professors' ips in colleges, took the ground that women can never be truly and properly educated in other than mixed schools. She said we are here to speak truths, rather than to advance theories. "My academic education has been of use to me; it has intensified my joys and enlightened my sorrows. By this higher education I have been drawn nearer to God, and who dares say nearness to God, does not add infinitely to the joys of life. This education has built a barrier between me, and cold, hunger and nakedness. This education was the lever that lifted me out of the deeply worn ruts to the poor house. When left a widow, it enabled me to feed, clothe and educate five children. Do you now ask why I do not wish women to stop where their mother's did? The time has come for woman to use her head as well as her heart. Woman should be taught to speak the German rather than dance a German. It is the half-and-half educated who are the curse of homes." She then showed in an able manner why women should be professors in colleges.

Mrs. Perkins, of Cooperstown, New York, read an able paper on the same subject.

Preachers, lawyers, doctors, teachers, were all on hand. Among the preachers was Mrs. Hanaford, Miss Chapin, and Antoinette Brown Blackwell, the first ordained woman minister in America.

Miss L. D. Potter, who a short time since gave an elocutionary entertainment at Library Hall, in your city, read a most excellent paper on "The Art Education of Woman." She took the ground that industrial as well as high art in America is far behind.

Mrs. Howe thought in industrial arts Americans were equal if not in advance of Europeans.

Not much was said in this Congress of women which would not be indorced by the best men of the nation.

Everything manifested a deep and intense desire on the part of the leading thinking women of the nation to do all that is right and proper to advance the cause of woman, and thereby the cause of humanity. The object of this meeting was, evidently, to present practical methods for securing to woman high intellectual, moral and physical conditions, and thereby to improve all domestic and social relations.

The Inviolable Home by Mrs. Wilbour of New York, showed how much the American women value home and how willing they are to use every effort to make it the most sacred and dear place upon the earth. Home is the mother of arts and industries, and man first raised his head towards heaven when he planted his feet firmly on the earth. When he took root he grew; while he wandered, he merely lived. The bulwarks of society are the fixed homes, planted in granite permanency, nurturing principles of life, immovable as their own foundations. Father and mother are bound by affections that grew under a sacred sense of obligation which, therefore, are not diverted by necessary cares and trials. They were not married on probation for a term of months, but in solemn earnest took a sacred determination for life. What the heart makes holy the law can make inviolable, and in doing this it will bring order and moral stability to the Commonwealth.

When women are taught to think, and given full liberty to express thought by helping to make the laws that will protect their homes, then and then only can we have homes where comfort, health, peace and purity have a firm foundation.

COMMENTING on the recent proposals of a speedy balloon journey from Long Island to England, the London Globe declares that, under favorable circumstances, a balloon voyage may be made with very little risk, but declares that "every attempt at controlling the horizontal motion of the machine, however, has hitherto proved an utter failure, and by all but a short sighed enthusiasts the problem has long been abandoned." If, it is added, Mr. Wise is right in his calculation that at a certain height a current may be found blowing steadily from America, and that by carefully regulating the altitude of his balloon he can keep in this current, it would appear that he would make the air voyage in safety. But, if this current theory of his is not correct, he can only reach Europe "by skillful shifting up and down from wind to wind. To go up, however, is to throw out ballast, and to come down is to let out gas. Obviously this cannot be continued indefinately, and is too probable that, while this brave but foolhardy man is thus hunting for winds, storms may drift him away to perish in regions of everlasting ice and snow, or to drown in the Atlantic." The whole argument seems to lie as in a nutshell, in the words above used—"cannot be continued indefinitely." The objection is sensible and practical.

AN INFIDEL REBUKED.—A careful reader of the Bible was assailed by an infidel with such expressions as these: "That the blood of Christ can wash away sin, is foolishness; I don't understand or believe it."

"The Bible student remarked, "You and Paul agree exactly."

"How?"

"Turn to the first chapter of Corinthians and read the eighteenth verse: 'For the preaching of the Cross is to them that perish, foolishness; but unto us which are saved, it is the power of God.'"

He hung his head, and ever after studied the Bible, and found it to be God's power unto salvation.

A GOOD CHILD'S ANSWER.—I was showing my little daughter Carrie a picture representing mothers pushing their children toward Jesus, when he held one of their number in his arms.

"I would not be pushed to Jesus, mamma," she said, with earnestness.

"That is the way I would have done with you, Carrie, if I had been there," said I.

"I would not want to be pushed; I'd go to him without pushing," she replied.

SUNDAY READINGS.—No. 26.

The Lord turned the curse into a blessin for thee, because he loved thee.—DEUT.

How often the seeming curses of life turn into blessed revelations of a father's love! The cloud comes, darkens and thickens, and the light of heaven is hidden behind its sombre folds. The hopes so bright and precious, nourished so long, die at length without leaving a ray of promise, and the heart grows heavy and desolate under its changed fortune.

Something akin to the feeling of being accursed, if not the sad conclusion itself, takes posession of the soul if faith be wanted; and he only can withstand the wave of desolation that comes with such a belief, who can say, "I know in Whom I have trusted, and that He can deliver me in his own good time from whatsoever afflicts, or makes afraid."

No matter how dark the present, or how rayless the future, the true child of God receives trial from his hands in perfect submission and undisturbed trust. He cannot see why such trial and disappointment should make his lot, but he knows in whom he has believed, and is willing to wait God's time for the explanation, confident that love and wisdom, not chance, regulates human affairs.

To those who so regard the various experiences of life, they have a holy and profitable lesson. Plans are frustrated, sickness lays its depressing hand upon the frame, the loved of many years go from the bodily presence, but these are only misfortunes in disguise—God makes of them blessings to refresh the soul and speed its growth toward perfection.

The faith that can trust the seeming ill, and believe it right, however bitter, losing no confidence in the love which sometime afflicts but never diminishes in its sincerity, is the faith with which to arm oneself for the conflict without and within, which never ceases. God turns the curse into blessing, because he loves his children; and though his present providences are often shrouded in gloom, the light never fails to break through in his own good time.

While the good and pleasant are accepted with greatful and devout hearts, trials and griefs should be received with unquestioning submission and a deep, fond belief that the Father who permits will assist our needs, strengthen when weak, and at last take our trusting spirits into his holy keeping. So borne up and strengthened, the mountain of evil straightway begins to sink, and we find ourselves moving on —the path opening as we proceed, rough places becoming smooth and the dreadful burden not too heavy to be borne.

If we cast away this staff of faith in life's journey, its paths are difficult and perilous indeed. "Though He slay me, yet will I trust in him," said the Psalmist, and this is faith, such as will keep from "that sickness of the heart with which hope has no more to do"

Life, the boon so often wasted, not very seldom thrown away, is opportunity, and for what? For self-culture, unselfish effort in behalf of friends and neighbors, and wherever an opportunity for good presents itself. The man who leaves the world the better for his having lived, bears something precious into the Father's immediate presence. The blessed Saviour said even a cup of water in His name was something done in his service, so it is not the magnitude, but the quality of the deed which He commends. The poor widow with her hallowed mite, had given more than all the stream of wealth that had poured into the treasury.

While thus striving to fill the round of daily duties, let us believe though we cannot see that the obstacles and trials encountered are of God, only his veiled messengers but always His, whatever guise they wear.

Oh take me by the hand
And lead me wherese'er the way seems best,
Only at last accept me in the land
Where sin and grief are lost in hallowed rest.

A lady retiring from an unprofitable trip to church, declared that when she "saw the shawls of those Smiths, and then thought of the things her own poor girl had to wear, if it was not for the consolation of religion she did not know what she should do."

—An eccentric but popular preacher observed one Sunday in church a man sleeping whom he knew, and whose wife was sitting beside him. The doctor called out to the latter, "Go home, Betty, and bring John's night-cap."

—A melting sermon being preached in a country church, all wept except one man, who, being asked why he did not weep with the rest, "Oh," said he, "I belong to another church."

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

The approaching close of another year brings with it the occasion for renewed thanksgiving and acknowledgment to the Almighty Ruler of the universe for the unnumbered mercies which he has bestowed upon us.—Abundant harvests have been the rewards of industry, with local exceptions; health has been among the blessings enjoyed, tranquility at home and peace with other nations have prevailed, frugal industry is regaining its merited recognition, and its merited rewards. Gradually but, under the providence of God, surely as we trust the nation in recovering from the lingering results of a dreadful civil strife; for these and all the other mercies vouchsafed it becomes us, as a people, to return our heartfelt and grateful acknowledgment, and with our thanksgiving for blessings we may unite our prayers for the cessation of local and temporary sufferings. I, therefore, recommend that on THURSDAY THE 27TH OF NOVEMBER, the people meet in their respective places of worship to make their acknowledgment to Almighty God for his bounties and his protection, and to offer to Him prayers for their continuance.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed. Done at the City of Washington this 14th day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three, and of the Independence of the United States, the ninety-seventh.

[Signed] U. S. GRANT.

By the President:
HAMILTON FISH, Secretary of State.

—The Lebanon Courier says: Frederick Wolf, a soldier of the war of 1812, aged ninety years, died on Thursday of last week. Before his death he requested that he should be buried with the honors of war by the Coleman Guards. In accordance with this request, a detachment of twenty of the company, under the command of Major Light, proceeded to Myrestown, on Saturday, and complied with the old soldier's wish, who was buried from the residence of his son, living at that village. The family of Mr. Wolf is a most remarkable one. He was born in Bethel township, Berks county, May 29, 1784, and was 89 years, 4 months and 11 days old when he died. He lived in Jackson township, this county, nearly his entire life. He was married in 1809, and had 12 children, 89 grand-children, 100 great-grand-children, and one great-great-grand-child. Nine of his children and nearly all of their issue are living, except his wife, who died about two years ago. There has been no death in the family for thirty-five years. Until within the last year he would frequently walk from Myrestown to Lebanon and return the same day.

——"Well, friend Jim, how did you make it down South?"

"First rate—made plenty of money."

"What did you do with it?"

"Laid it out in houses and lots."

"Where?"

"Every place I have been where there was any."

"What kind of houses and lots?"

"Coffee houses and lots of whisky."

——John G. Saxe sends the following to a temperance convention:

You have heard of "the snake in the grass," my boy,
Of the terrible snake in the grass;
But now you must know,
Man's deadliest foe
Is a snake of a different class,
Alas!
'Tis the venomous snake in the glass!

—The Allentown Chronicle says: A man residing in Saucon township, this county, whose name our inquiry failed to ascertain, had hoarded in different places about his house twenty thousand dollars in greenbacks. When the recent panic came upon the country he grew fearful lest in the prevailing scarcity of currency his savings might be discovered and stolen. He went out and offered some of it to his neighbors on mortgage, and the offer being accepted, he went to take it out of its hiding places. Six thousand dollars were found to be so moulded as not to admit of identification, and the saving farmer possibly knows now that his wealth would have been safer in somebody else's hands than his own. It would be a pleasure to get hold of his name, for while a man has a right to dispose of his money as he pleases, one whose method has proven so disastrous would serve as a warning to all similarly disposed. And we do not doubt but that we have many such in Centre county—penny wise and pound foolish.

——A Stika correspondent thus describes Alaska scenery: "Take one big mountain, covered with trees from the base nearly to the summit, with an undergrowth of brush, briers and moss, almost impassable—multiply the one by ten thousand, and you have Alaska. There is a terrible sameness. One singular feature of this mass of forest is the absence of birds; I have seen but one robin in Sitka."

——"Wife, wife, what has become of the grapes?" "I suppose, my dear, the hens picked them off," was the bland reply. "Hens—hens! Some two legged hens, I guess," said the husband, with some impetuosity; to which she calmly replied, "My dear, did you ever see any other kind?"

GEORGE MEARS YOCUM.

HIS ACCIDENTAL DEATH—THE FUNERAL.

It is a hard task to describe the feelings of this community when, on Tuesday morning of last week, a message came that George M. Yocum was a corpse. Had any one attempted to surmise who, among the lawyers of this county, would follow the venerable McAllister to the grave, it is probable that no one would have named him. None were possessed of more robust health, brighter prospects for the future or with less thought of death. On the preceding Thursday, he took the morning train to Lock Haven with his friends in anticipation of a week's relaxation from business cares and the gratification of his well known love of the chase. Remaining at Lock Haven over night, the party proceeded, the next day, to Sinnemahoning, where they procured a wagon and with it started for a cabin near the head of Three Runs in Clearfield County. Saturday was spent by the party in exploring the woods and making preparations for the next week's hunt. Early on Monday morning the hunters left the cabin and, after proceeding about two and one half miles, they everally took their posts at the different crossings and waited for Mr. Haupt who had been sent with the dogs to raise the deer.

At this point we present to our readers a letter from the brother of the deceased—Seth H. Yocum, Esq. to a friend, which furnishes a correct account of the fatal occurence:

MY DEAR FRIEND:—

Brother George was shot under the following circumstances:—Being out on a hunting expedition near the head of Three Runs, Clearfield Co., in company with Simeon and Isaac Haupt from Bellefonte and Henry Hile and myself from Schuylkill Co., and when making a drive with dogs at Gum Spring crossings, the accident occurred.

Simeon Haupt, who was driving with the dogs raised a deer, and it ran out south of the men posted on the crossings, Simeon then came out to the west of brother George, and they together came over nearly to where I was standing. They called me and then, as I approached them, they were both standing on a fallen tree of considerable size. I had reached within twenty or thirty feet of them. Brother was holding his gun in an upright position, the muzzle in the hollow of his left arm, the but resting on the log beside his foot, and, with his right hand had taken out of his pocket a lunch and was about to commence opening it, when his gun at the breech slipped off the tree, forward, striking the hammers on the log and exploding the cap of one barrel of the gun. The shot stunned and bewildered him, but did not knock him down. I lay down my gun quickly and ran up to him, I saw the blood spirting from his mangled arm through which the charge had passed, tearing his lower fore-arm into shreds. With the assistance of Mr. Haupt I bound a strong strap tightly around his arm near the shoulder, and taking off my over-alls I wound and wrapt the shattered arm together as best I could to prevent brother seeing it, and to prevent all the bleeding possible:—He then became very sick, and lay down for a few moments, Mr. Haupt and Mr. Hile I sent to the cabin, 2½ miles distant, to get the bottle of whisky and his over-coat. In the mean time brother insisted on walking on toward the camp, and by the time Haupt and Hile met us we were more than half way there. I had supported him as best I could along the road. He took a drink of whisky on his arrival and continued to take a drink about every half hour until we reached Sinnemahoning station. He walked all the way to the cabin. He suffered intense pain all the time from the first moment. At the cabin he tried to lie down but could not lie still on account of the pain. It took some time to harness the horses, get the blankets and clothing into the wagon ready to start. Then I drove over the logs and stones, Mr. Hile holding and supporting him, and Mr. Haupt running ahead to look up the road which was not at times to be seen not being used. We came down the awful mountain at Sinnemahoning station to find the creek too much swollen to cross by fording, and at once, with the aid of some rail road men with lanterns (for it was dark,) we carried and led him over the bridge to the rail road station. Learning that there was a doctor there we sent for him at once. He examined him and advised he be taken on the train to Renova or Lock Haven, he thought best to Lock Haven. We placed him on a couch in the sleeping car, very prostrate, Dr. Reese controlling the bleeding with his hand and removing the strap and cord that had been placed around his arm and which gave him great pain. It took about 3 hours to reach Lock Haven. At Renova I telegraphed Drs. Armstrong and Hays to be at the train with a conveyance to take him to the Hotel. We found Dr. Armstrong there with wagon. On taking him out of the car he fainted, became very chilly and never became warm after, we took him as carefully and quickly as possible to the Fallon House. We got for him a room and the doctors commenced their examination. He also took stimulants at the depot and on the cars but now he commenced to vomit and could not endure the stimulants. The doctors tried to take up the arteries. He bled some and seemed weaker after. He grew more restless and partly delirious. We got hot bricks and lay around him, but he kept growing colder and the cold sweat covered him. About four o'clock his breathing became difficult at times. He wanted to raise up but fainted fearfully when raised up. He lingered until about 6 A. M. when he breathed his last.

About nine o'clock on Tuesday morning, a telegram was received here announcing his death. A meeting of the bar was immediately called, and it was resolved that the bar proceed in a body to Lock Haven, to accompany the remains to this place. Besides these, a large number of personal friends of the deceased, joined his professional brethren on their sad mission.

On arriving at Lock Haven, it was found that Court had adjourned, after passing appropriate resolutions and appointing a committee to attend his funeral.

His remains were brought to this place on Wednesday morning. Committees from the Bar, the Masonic order, and the Undine Fire Company, together with a large number of our citizens followed the corpse to the residence of D. G. Bush, Esq., his late law partner. On the afternoon train, his brothers Seth H. Yocum, Esq., Dr. J. J. Yocum, Rev. Ezra H. Yocum and his sister Mrs. Taylor, and other relatives arrived.

The funeral, at two o'clock on Thursday, was attended by a large concourse of people. Delegations of the Masonic Fraternity from Tyrone, Osceola, Philipsburg, Clearfield and Lock Haven, as well as the Knights Templar of Hospitaller Commandery of the latter place arrived on the morning train.

The funeral services at the residence of D. G. Bush, Esq., were conducted by the Rev. M. L. Smyser, of the M. E. Church, in a most impressive manner, after which the Masonic Fraternity took the body in charge. The remains of deceased were then followed to the Cemetery in the following order of procession.

1. Knights Templar, in full uniform.
2. Members of the Undine Fire Company.
3. Bellefonte Lodge of Odd Fellows.
4. Bellefonte Lodge of A. Y. M., and visiting members of other Lodges.
5. Members of the Bar.
6. Committee of Bell's Lettres Society, of Dickinson Seminary.
7. Members or School Board.
8. Teachers of Public Schools.
9. Relatives and Friends in Carriages.
10. Country people in carriages.
11. Citizens.

The impressive Masonic burial service was performed by Rev. P. Crohn of Lock Haven, assisted by the officers of the Masonic Lodge, of this place. Upon the coffin which bore the simple inscription, "George M. Yocum," were placed a wreath of white flowers, and a beautiful floral cross—a tribute from the Public Schools. After it was lowered into the grave, the Masons, passing around, silently deposited a sprig of evergreen—their last token of affection.

The large assembly then thoughtfully and sorrowfully returned to their homes leaving all that is mortal of the able lawyer, the upright citizen, the courteous gentleman, the generous friend, to rest, peacefully in his grave until the Angel of the Resurrection shall call him to his reward.

GEORGE MEARS YOCUM, ESQ.

The subject of this memoir whose death from the effect of a gun-shot wound accidently received, while hunting deer near the head of Three Runs, Clearfield county, we announced last week was born, June 12th, 1837, near Catawissa, Columbia county, Pa. His father, Jesse Yocum, was a native of Germany, and, after emigrating to Pennsylvania, persued the occupation of farming.—George M., after arriving at the proper age, attended the common school in the neighborhood until the spring of 1855, when he entered the Mifflinburg Academy. In the fall of 1856 he was transferred to the Academy at New Berlin. In August 1857 he entered Dickinson Seminary where he continued till June 1860, when he graduated, taking the first honors of the class. In September following he removed to Lock Haven, and became the assistant of Prof. T. C. Rogers in the Lock Haven Academy, and had charge of the classical department. Soon after going to Lock Haven he commenced the study of law with Mayer and Ball, and continued until he had finished his elementary reading and was admitted to practice in the several courts of Clinton county, December 24th, 1862. He remained in Lock Haven till the spring of 1863, when he came to Bellefonte and entered into co-partnership with D. G. Bush, Esq. Mr. Bush, having at the time a large collection practice, and many cases pending in court for trial, and from that time largely engaged in business operations out of the line of the legal profession, left the principal responsibility of the practice upon his young partner. Although as yet inexperienced in the practical duties of his profession, Mr. Yocum courageously met the responsibilities of his position, and fully and fairly satisfied the most sanguine expectations of the friends who had recommended him to Mr. Bush. Coming to this county a stranger and poor, without any of those adventitious aids with which many young men begin a professional career, he soon worked his way to a prominent and an honorable place in his profession. He not only obtained a lucrative practice, but was recognized as one of the most promising young members of the bar. Possessing more than the average grade of native talent, he was energetic, industrious and studious. He was always exact and methodical in his method of doing business, and conscientiously attentive to the interests of his clients. As a practitioner he was exact, attentive and sagacious. As an advocate, his style of speaking was clear, strong and forcible. In manner he was always friendly and courteous to his brethern, and respectful and deferential to the court. He was never personal, abusive or acrimonious in speaking of his opponent, the parties or witnesses. It has been the good fortune of but few attorneys to possess the good will and kindly feelings of the members of the profession so generally as he did.

As a citizen he was always prompt to discharge the obligations resting upon him. Expecting to make this his permanent home he felt a deep and lively interest and took a prominent part in promoting whatever tended to improve the community. Churches, Sunday schools, public schools, private schools, manufacturing establishments, charitable and social institutions, each and all, received aid and assistance from his counsel, his labor and his praise.

As a friend he was frank, genial, generous and warm-hearted. Few men ever had more friends and fewer enemies than he had made in this community.

We have already said that Mr. Yocum had secured success in his profession. He had acquired probably ten thousand dollars of property clear of all liabilities, and, at the time of his death, had a large and lucrative practice, which made him not only comfortable, but pecuniarily independent. Possessing, as he did, an unusually fine physical organization, and situated as happily as he was, professionally and pecuniarily, he had the right to look forward to a long and happy career of professional success and general usefulness. Why he should have been been suddenly cut down in the flower of his strength, is incomprehensible to finite minds. All we can know is that our friend was in the keeping of Him "who doeth all things well."

ACTION OF THE CENTRE COUNTY BAR UPON THE DEATH OF GEORGE M. YOCUM.—At a meeting of the members of the Centre County Bar held at the office of E. & E. Blanchard on Tuesday Oct. 28, 1873, for the purpose of considering what action should be taken in reference to the death of George M. Yocum, at which Hon. James Macmanus was called to the chair and D. S. Keller chosen Secretary, it was determined to proceed to Lock Haven in a body and attend the corpse, to Bellefonte, should it be taken to the latter place upon that day.

The same afternoon at an informal meeting at the Fallon House, Lock Haven, James H. Rankin, Esq., in the chair and E. M. Blanchard acting as Secretary, D. F. Fortney, John G. Love and S. D. Grey were appointed a committee to attend the remains to Northumberland and, represent the Bellefonte Bar at the funeral, in the event of its occurring at that place.

Gen. James A. Beaver, Adam Hoy and D. S. Keller were appointed a committee to draft resolutions of respect to be presented at a meeting of the Bar on Thursday, Oct. 30, at 11 o'clock A. M. in the Court Room in Bellefonte. On Thursday Oct. 30, the Bar assembled at the appointed hour, Hon. James Macmanus in the chair and D. S. Keller as Secretary. Represtatives of the Bar of Clinton and Clearfield counties were also present.

Gen. Beaver from the committee on Resolutions submitted the following—

Resolutions of Respect to the Memory of our late Associate, George M. Yocum.

The sudden and melancholy Providence which resulted in the death of our late Brother George M. Yocum, a member of the Bar of Centre county, having brought us together in public meeting; therefore,

Resolve 1st. That in his death the Bar of this County has sustained a loss which, in itself, and considering the peculiar time and circumstances of the event, falls with peculiar and unusual severity upon us as a profession and upon the whole community in whose welfare he was deeply interested.

2nd. That while we cannot fathom and do not pretend to interpret this Providence, we cannot refrain from an expression of our confidence and belief in the promising and useful future indited by the professional training and culture through which he had already passed and the success which he had already attained in the profession.

3d. That his admirable social qualities and his uniform courtesy has endeared him not only to his associates of the Bar, but to the entire circle of his acquaintance.

4th. That whilst we cannot speak fully for the companionships in other spheres, which have been thus ruthlessly sundered, we recognize the loss which those who were endeared to him by ties of blood, those who were attached to him by the bonds of fraternal fellowship, those who lose in him a faithful conscientious adviser, and those with whom he labored in the discharge of public duties have sustained, and tender to all our sincerest sympathies and condolence. We join our tears with theirs and rejoice with them in the fact that we sorrow not as those without hope.

5th. That as a mark of respect for his memory, we will wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days, and will attend the funeral in a body.

6th. That John. G. Love, Esq., be appointed to present these Resolutions to the Court at next Term, to be entered at large upon its Records, and that copies be furnished to his relatives and to the newspapers of Centre and Clinton counties for publication.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

JAMES A. BEAVER,
ADAM HOY,
D. S. KELLER,
Committee.

Gen. Beaver accompanied the presentation of these resolutions with some appropriate and impressive remarks, at the conclusion of which the resolutions were unanimously adopted.

Mr. Rankin here read a note from the Marshal, Capt. Chas. T. Fryberger, indicating the place assigned the Bar in the funeral procession and on motion the representations from Clinton and Clearfield were invited to accompany the Bar.

The meeting then adjourned, assembling again at 1 o'clock P. M. at the office of Wm. P. Wilson, Esq., whence it proceeded to the house of mourning, afterwards following the body to the grave.

JAMES MACMANUS,
President.

D. S. KELLER,
Secretary.

Action of the Bellefonte School Board in regard to the death of their late President, Geo. M. Yocum, Esq.

Whereas it has pleased Almighty God to remove from our midst by death most sudden and terrible, our friend and colleague Geo. M. Yocum

Resolved 1st. That as Board of School Directors of Bellefonte Borough, we most sincerely deplore his loss. As President of the Board he was most courteous and affable and as Director most energetic and effective and we believe that the present prosperous condition of our Public Schools, is largely due to his personal and persistent efforts.

2nd, That as friends and associates of the deceased who in mingling with him in the varied walks of life have learned to respect and esteem him, we desire to express our unfeigned sorrow at his death and to bear testimony alike to his high character, his urbanity, his frank and generous nature, and his unimpeachable integrity.

3d. That these resolutions be published in the School Journal and the several newspapers of this county and a copy of them be sent to the relatives of the deceased.

GEO. F. HARRIS,
JNO. P. HARRIS,
Committee.

At a regular meeting of the Belles Lettres Literary Society of Dickinson Seminary, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted.

Whereas, It has pleased God, in His Alwise providence, to remove from our midst by a sudden and violent death, our beloved brother, Geo. M. Yocum, therefore be it Resolved 1st. That, while submitting to the will of our Heavenly Father, we tender the family of the deceased our heartfelt sympathy, and commend them to Him who alone can bind up the broken heart, and who, while He afflicts with one hand, upholds with the other.

Resolved 2d. That, as a mark of respect and esteem, we appoint a committee to attend the funeral of our late brother, and that we drape our Hall in mourning for the space of fifteen days.

Resolved 3rd. That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the family of our late brother, and that they also be published in the Bellefonte and Williamsport papers.

——Our reporter at Snow Shoe furnishes us with the following:

Close on the death of Mr. Yocum, follows that of our beloved fellow townsman Adam Crissman, Esq., who died last Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. For seven years Mr. Crissman has been an invalid, and a great sufferer. He was afflicted with the heart disease; but during the past summer he had appeared to be much better, and his friends were led to hope that he might ultimately recover. But as fall approached the disease took such a shape that their fond hopes were crushed, and the unwelcomed truth forced itself upon them, that the end was near at hand. He was kind and generous to a fault, and his death will be long mourned by his family and friends, whose hearts are now made desolate. He who was beloved and honored is no more; his place is vacant; his voice hushed in perpetual silence. The beloved form upon which they had so often gazed with delight, is mouldering in the dust, and their spirits are sad—their home lonely. But after all what is death? We kiss thee, gentle sister; thou art cold and pale, and hast life's winter on thy brow; its silence on thy lips. But spring will come, and thou shalt wear such garlands as the hand of time cannot derange. Then arise and go with joy about thy house-hold cares, and give thy soul to peace; for death is but a kind and gentle servant, who unlocks with noiseless hand, life's flower encircled door, to show us those we love.

MAGAZINES.

ST. NICHOLAS FOR NOVEMBER.

The first number of ST. NICHOLAS has just been issued. Pictorially, it is one of the most beautiful magazines in the country, being enriched by designs from the pencils of Miss Hallock, Sol Eyting, Miss Ledyard, Sheppard, Stephens, Bolles, Bread, and others.

The reading matter is varied and bright.—There are thirty-three articles, some for the very little ones, some for the oldest or young people, and some for every age between. We find in its broad, well-printed pages, poems by William Cullen Bryant, Celia Thaxter, Lucy Larcom, and others. There is capital humanfairy sketch by Rebecca Harding Davis. Donald G. Mitchell contributes a characteristic article entitled "Who Wrote the Arabian Nights!" and the first chapters of serial story by Frank R. Stockton are given. A saltutatory by the conductor, Mrs. Mary Mapes Dodge, is sure to reach the heart of every child-reader and the hearts of their fathers and mothers as well. Among the stories we find a charmingly told account of a fairy's visit to a bee-hive, by Annie Moore; and exceedingly funny little stories by Margaret Eytinge, and lively tales by Paul Fort and J. S. Stacy. Lucretia P. Hale tells the adventures of a doll, Noah Brooks has a capital article for boys, called "By the sea," and Olive Thorne talks about a certain "Old-Fashioned Hat."

There are also interesting descriptions of zebras, passenger-pigeons, the curious inhabitants of the Farallone Islands, and the Piute Indians, besides bright little "Jingles" and a whole page in large type for little children with big eyes. We must not forget to mention as an admirable feature a short story in German for the benefit of youngsters who are learning the language. A similar French story is announced for the next number. Then "Jack-in-the-Pulpit," a curious fellow who is full of littbits of wit and wisdom, holds forth most entertainingly; and there are capital notices of juvenile books, intended for those who will read the books, and a Puzzle department that will certainly sharpen the wits of the youngsters.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

BREAK IN SEWING MACHINE PRICES.—Our readers will be interested to learn that the Florence Company have responded to the general call for lower prices for Sewing Machines, and will henceforth sell their well-known and superior machines, at a reduction of form 30 to 40 per cent. from former prices. 41-1t

A Startling Truth!—Thousands die anually from neglected coughs and colds, which soon ripen into consumption, or other equally fatal diseases of the lungs; when by the timely use of a single bottle of Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry their lives have been preserved to a green old age.

LIGHT BUCKWHEAT CAKES.—To one quart of buckwheat flour add three table spoonfuls of molasses or syrup, and three tea-spoonfuls of salt; then add one quart of warm water (or warm water and sweet milk), let it stand over night in a warm place; in the morning when ready to bake, stir in thoroughly two measures of Banner Boking Powder; bake immediately on a hot griddle.

Each can of the Banner Baking Powder contains a small measure, to be used even full, according to printed directions. If you cannot obtain this really valuable article from your grocer, send twenty-five cents by mail, addressed to Banner Baking Powder, P. O. Lock Box 317, Pittsburgh, Pa. and you will receive postage paid, a quarter pound package, together with a list of fifty valuable Recipes.

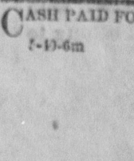
E. F. KUNKEL'S BITTER WINE OF IRON has never been known to fail in the cure of weakness, attended with symptoms; indisposition to exertion; loss of memory; difficulty of breathing; general weakness; horror of disease; weak, nervous trembling; dreadful horror of death; night sweat; cold feet; weakness; dimness of vision; languor; universal lassitude of the muscular system; enormous appetite, with dyspeptic symptoms; hot hands; flushing of the body; dryness of the skin; pallid countenance and eruptions on the face, purifying the blood; pain in the back; heaviness of the eyelid; frequent black spots flying before the eyes with temporary suffusion and loss of sight; want of attention, etc. These symptoms all arise from a weakness, and to remedy that use E. F. Kunkel's Bitter wine of Iron. It never fails. Thousands are now enjoying health who have used it. Take only E. F. Kunkle's.

Beware of counterfeits and base imitations. As Kunkel's Bitter wine of Iron is so well known all over the country, druggists themselves make an imitation and try to palm it off on their customers, when they call it Kunkel's Bitter Wine of Iron.

Kunkel's Bitter wine of Iron is put up only in $1 bottles, and has a yellow wrapper neatly put on the outside, with the proprietor's photograph on the wrapper of each bottle. Always look for the photograph on the outside, and you will always be sure to get the genuine article.

Sold by all Druggists and dealers everywhere. 40-1m.

Centaur Liniment



There is no pain which the Centaur Liniment will not relieve, no swelling they will not subdue, and no lameness which they will not cure. This is strong language, but it is true. They have produced more cures of rheumatism, neuralgia, lock-jaw, palsy, sprains, swellings, caked-breasts, scalds, burns, salt-rheum, earache, &c., &c., upon the human frame, and of strains spavin, galls, &c., upon animals in one year than have all other pretended remedies since the world began. They are counter-irritant, all-healing pain reliever. Cripples throw away their crutches, the lame walk, poisonous bites are endered harmless, and the wounded are healed without a scar. The recipe is published around each bottle. They sell as no articles ever before sold, and they sell because they do just what they pretends to do. Those who now suffer from rheumatism, pain or swelling, deserve to suffer if they will not use Centaur Liniment. More than 1000 certificates of remarkable cures, including frozen limbs, chronic rheumatism, gout, running tumors, &c., have been received. We will send a circular containing certificates, the recipe, &c., gratis, to any one requesting it. One bottle of the yellow wrapper Centaur Liniment is worth one hundred dollars for spavined or sweenied horses and mules, or for screw-worm in sheep. Stock-owners—these liniments are worth your attention. No family should be without them. "White wrapper for family use;" Yellow wrapper for animals. Sold by all Druggists. 50 cents per bottle; large bottles $1.00. J. B. ROSE & Co., 33 Broadway, New York.

CASTORIA is more than a substitute for Castor Oil. It is the only safe article in existence which is certain to assimilate the food, regulate the bowels, cure wind-colic and produce natural sleep. It contains neither minerals, morphine or alcohol, and is pleasant to take. Children need not cry and mothers may rest. 5-30-1y
